

Bachelor degree programmes within Economics and Business

	Economics and Business Administration	Business Administration & supplementary subject	Public Policy	Economics and Management	Mathematics - Economics
	Business administration degree programme, incl. business law	Business administration in combination with another subject	Economics and political science, focus on methods and theory	Business and economics, focus on methods and theory	Based on mathematics, Business and economics
Intake	In all max. 960 students admitted. Grade point average	In all max. 85 students admitted. Grade point average	In all max. 60 students admitted.	In all max. 200 students admitted. Grade point average	No grade point average. Unlimited intake.
Mathematics from upper secondary school	Mathematics B-level	Mathematics B-level	Mathematics A-level	Mathematics A-level	Mathematics A-level
Compulsory courses in %	78% (140 out of 180 ECTS)	81% (110 out of 135 ECTS)*	83% (150 out of 180 ECTS)	69% (125 out of 180 ECTS)	89% (160 out of 180 ECTS)
Compulsory courses: Method / business/ economic/pol.sci.	21% method ¹ 61% business ² 18% economics ³	19% method ¹ 62% business ² 19% economics ³	33% method ¹ 27% economics ³ 40% political science ⁴	36% method ¹ 32% business ² 32% economics ³	69% method ¹ 11% business ² 19% economics ³
Compulsory larger written assignments (seminars & bachelor thesis)	19% (35 ECTS out of 180 ECTS)	11% (15 out of 135 ECTS)	17% (30 out of 180 ECTS)	11% (20 out of 180 ECTS)	6% (10 out of 180 ECTS)

¹ – Method consists of subjects like statistics, mathematics and the drawing up of scientific studies.

² – Business covers areas such as organisations, management methods, production theory, accounting, finance and investment, marketing, etc.

³ – Economics concerns topics such as macro-economics, international trade, economic history, supply and demand of commodities.

⁴ – Political science concerns areas such as theory and practice of politics, the analysis of political systems, and public administration and management.

*- In all 180 ECTS: 135 ECTS as main subject and 45 ECTS as supplementary subject.

 - As well as different requirements according to supplementary subject.